

Phil Berrigan: 1923-2002

PHIL BERRIGAN INSTITUTE FOR NONVIOLENCE

Learn the basic theory and practice of Nonviolence

Form small Affinity Groups

Then...

Act to Transform yourself and the World

Thomas Merton in conversation with Phil and Dan Berrigan at Gethsemane Monastery. The Question is:
How can the creative use of Nonviolent Practice help to heal a broken and suffering world?

The Answer still rests with us.

Contact: Rev. Paul E. Clark, allright College

WHAT IS NONVIOLENCE?

Most people would have a difficult time answering this question. And yet...nonviolence has been an effective means of confronting social injustice for a very long time. Whether the struggle to gain women the right to vote, or rights for workers, or the movement for civil rights, or the peace and justice witness, or efforts to save the environment...nonviolence has always been the people's most powerful means of social change.

WHY PHIL BERRIGAN?

Few Americans studied, practiced, and struggled with nonviolence more than Phil Berrigan. Also, few nonviolent warriors brought as much creativity and imagination to his thought and practice. In the face of possible nuclear war and endless conventional wars, Phil Berrigan continued to believe that a deep religious faith, human community, and nonviolent resistance to social evils were the pathway to a better future.

WHY YOU?

The world faces sad times and deadly realities:

- Devastating poverty
- Wars without end
- Sweatshop labor
- Environmental destruction
- Human rights abuses
- Genocide in Africa

By learning the theory and practice of nonviolence, apathy and despair do not have to be your only choices. Nonviolence promises both individual and social transformation. For more information, contact Chaplain Clark at Ext. 7708 or stop by his office in the basement of the Main Chapel.